THE DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO ROUND

By DREW PEARL and ROBERT S. ALL

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15.—It is the conclusion of every Washington observer—whether he is for or against Franklin Roosevelt—that no administration in years has suffered so much internal confusion as the New Deal.

This has two causes:

1. Roosevelt has undertaken a tremendous program in a relatively short time, and the throwing together of emergency bureaus and emergency programs necessarily has resulted in considerable confusion.

2. The man who is the axle of this program, its guiding genius, the dynamo behind it, time after time has added to the confusion by reversing himself or giving conflicting ideas to his cabinet officers.

This second point was strikingly driven home the other day to a close friend of the president's who was sitting in on one of his private conferences.

DUCKS VS. CATTLE

ONE of these conferences was with Secretary Harold Ickes, who had worked out a plan for taking part of the national domain—now lying idle—and turning it over to grazing land under the new grazing act.

"Excellent idea," said the president. An executive decree to execute it was ordered prepared.

A day later in came J. N. (Ding) Darling, famous cartoonist, who deserted his drawing easel to protect wild game under the New Deal as chief of the bureau of biological survey. Mr. Darling brought to the president an idea directly the opposite of Mr. Ickes's.

He argued that the use of the national domain as grazing land would destroy the feeding grounds of his ducks. He had particularly at heart the future trumpeter swans, a species rapidly becoming extinct in the United States. Darling demanded that the national domain be kept intact, not invaded by sheep and cattle.

"Absolutely right," said the president.

Both Ickes and Darling left the president with the impression that he was in complete agreement with them. The result is that the question of ducks and grazing land has been tangled up ever since.

MASTER MIND

SEVERAL congressmen and journalists visiting the United States Naval academy at Annapolis recently have been impressed by the mentality of Rear Admiral David Sellers, its commandant and directing genius.

Admiral Sellers' chief passion, as far as Annapolis is concerned, seems to be brighter buttons and more movies extolling the virtues of being a midshipman.

Scholarship, apparently, is a subject with which the admiral is not greatly troubled.

He has already promoted several motion pictures depicting the romance of a midshipman's life; and the Hollywood executives who smeared up in the plane that killed Senator Cutting were en route to do another.

"Tell me," inquires the admiral of visiting journalists, "how can I get another big picture concern interested in the academy?"

MASTER'S VOICE
CAMERA-SHY Secretary Frances Perkins, ever on the alert to enlarge her bureaucratic powers, is insistent that the proposed new national labor relations board, which would be created by the Wagner labor disputes bill, be placed under the jurisdiction of her department.

Senator Bob Wagner, Chairman Francis Biddle of the NLRB, and other sponsors of the measure are vigorously opposed to this. They contend that the board, to fulfill its mission as a "Supreme Court for Labor Problems," must be independent of political supervision or interference.

This logic prevailed with the senate labor committee. Under the bill reported out the board would have an independent status. Chairman Bill Connery, of the house labor committee, acted differently. As a friend of Miss Perkins he favored acceding to her demand. Yet, he could not brush aside arbitrarily the pleas and arguments of the labor union.

Leaders Seek Unifying Group as President Hits 'Lying' Critics

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15.—A resolution calling upon Secretary Wallace to furnish all correspondence concerning the farmers' gathering here yesterday and to report whether they were brought to Washington at government expense was introduced in the senate today by Senator Hastings (R., Del.).

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15.—After shouting their approval of a speech in which President Roosevelt said "high and mighty" critics of the new deal farm program are "lying," farmer supporters of the AAA gathered again today to plan a new, national agrarian organization.

Leaders in the move said they envisioned it as a unifying force to wipe out sectional lines. They said "we have several national farm organizations but they are not in accord."

There were grins of satisfaction and much back-slapping among the farm "marchers" as they reviewed yesterday's program. They (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Strikers Return to Toledo Plant Today

TOLEDO, Ohio, Wednesday, May 15.—The day shift of 1100 men filed through the gates of the Toledo Chevrolet plant today, punched time clocks, and went to work.

A strike closed the plant April 23 throwing approximately 33,000 automotive workers in other parts of the country out of work.

The remainder of the force of approximately 2300 men is scheduled to return at 3:30 p. m. (E.S.T.)

Huge Diamond Sold For Over $700,000

NEW YORK, Wednesday, May 15.—Harry Winston, diamond merchant, today announced his purchase in London of the Jonkers diamond, the largest uncut diamond in the world, for a sum "in excess of $700,000."

The stone weighs 726 carats, and is approximately the size of a hen's egg. It will be brought to America within a month or so and displayed to prospective purchasers.

BONUS MOVE IN DOUBT

Delay of Several Days Seen

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15.—A delay of several days in sending the Patman cash bonus bill to the white house for a veto appeared likely today as backers of the measure awaited the return of absent colleagues favoring legislation.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15.—When the move in the bonus fight will be made remained uncertain today as supporters of the Patman bill still sparred for time and awaited the return of absent cohorts.

The bill followed a sudden change of strategy yesterday which opponents of the measure interpreted as an acknowledgment that the Patmanites do not have enough senate votes to override a veto.

Patman forces in the senate had previously announced they

Cash "Lifts" Roll In For Cripple

SMILING Vernon Carpenter, the 340-pound paralytic victim, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carpenter, 1325 West Second street, Santa Ana, will be riding around in a new gasoline-motored wheel-chair within the near future. That was indicated today by the quick response to The Journal's campaign to raise a fund of $250 to purchase a Custer chair similar to the one operated by Freddie Carson, Santa Ana's crippled newsboy.

F. H. Simoneau, 1609 West Third street, Santa Ana, who is Orange county agent for the wheel-chairs, explained that the cost of the regular Custer motor is $235, but an additional $15 will be needed to have certain changes made at the factory because of Vernon's unusual weight.

Maneuvers Proximity Nippon Resented By Admiral

SHIMONOSEKI, Japan, Wednesday, May 15.—Japanese naval maneuvers as close to American shores as the United States war games in the northeast Pacific are to Japan, said Admiral Kato today, "would greatly agitate American opinion."

Mr. Kato compared the activities of the American combined fleets to "drawing a sword before a neighbor's house."

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15.—Secretary Swanson, denying that the fleet's Pacific maneuvers were aimed at Japan, said today he had no personal objections to the Japanese fleet holding its maneuvers in the north Pacific provided they did not come closer than 2000 miles to the west coast.

Commenting at a press conference on a statement by Admiral Kanji Kato, the navy secretary said he had "repeatedly" given orders that no units of the American fleet cross the 180th meridian.

SERA UNFAIR, MEXICANS CHARGE

County Committee in Executive Session After Meeting

A delegation representing the Santa Ana Workers club, which is affiliated with the Public Works Unemployment league with headquarters on South Spring street, Los Angeles, appeared before the county SERA committee yesterday afternoon to ask for changes in conditions which they contended are unfair to the Mexican people.

Following the session the committee adjourned and then went into executive session. Virgil Dahl, assistant to the field representative for the state SERA, said he wished to discuss matters with the committee which he was not at liberty to make public.

Frank Delgado, spokesman at the open session, who said he lives on the Bastanchury ranch above Fullerton, contended that the Mexican people have been discriminated against in the matter of work relief budgets. He also said Mexican concrete workers who never had thinned beets before had been dropped from the SERA and ordered to go into the fields, when agricultural laborers were removed from the SERA rolls.

Los Angeles to Buy Town of Bishop If Promises Are Kept

SACRAMENTO, Wednesday, May 15.—A bill, the purpose of which was said by Senator Keough, Bishop, to make the town of Bishop keep its promise to the city of Los Angeles, was passed last night by the senate.

Keough explained Los Angeles now owns 75 per cent of Bishop and has agreed to buy the remaining 25 per cent for $301,000 providing the town will incorporate. The bill provides the town cannot reincorporate if Los Angeles keeps its agreement.

Four Ambushed, Shot After Manila Voting

MANILA, Wednesday, May 15.—Four men were shot dead today from ambush in Laguna province, near the scene of the Sakdalista uprising of May 2, but the authorities blamed "Communists," not Sakdalistas.

The plebiscite election yesterday, which resulted in overwhelming acceptance of a constitution for the forthcoming commonwealth government, passed off quietly despite threats of the Sakdalistas.

SECOND TRIAL IS DENIED KIDNAPER

Three Housewives Are Victims of Attack By Convicted

LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, May 15.—Thomas Edward Dugger, so-called "ape man," convicted of kidnapping in an attempted attack on Miss Lela Embree, 60, today was sentenced to hang.

Sentence was pronounced by Superior Judge Thomas P. White after he denied Dugger, so-called "ape man," a new trial. Dugger was accused of brutally beating three Los Angeles housewives.

"These were particularly fiendish and vicious crimes," Judge White said. "If ever full penalty of the law should be exacted, then it should be pronounced on this defendant. In compliance with the verdict of the jury, I order you to be hanged by the neck until dead."

The sentence was made mandatory by the jury which convicted Dugger of kidnapping without recommendation for life imprisonment.

Nine Other Counts

In addition to the kidnapping, Dugger was convicted of nine other felony counts, including mayhem, robbery and attack. Date of execution was set for July 26, at San Quentin.

Col. Lawrence in Critical Condition

WOOL, Dorsetshire, England, Wednesday, May 15.—Col. T. E. Lawrence's condition was reported as extremely critical today at the Camp Bovington military hospital, although his strength was being maintained.

A bulletin issued at 8 a. m., 44 hours after the motorcycle accident in which the famous figure in Great Britain's military history suffered a fractured skull, said his condition was "about the same."

War or Not, Il Duce Wants Birth Increase

ROME, Wednesday, May 15.—(P) War or no war, Premier Benito Mussolini intends to see that Italy's birth rate is not neglected.

After telling the world last night that the nation had between 800,000 and 900,000 men under arms ready for any eventuality, Il Duce today promised army, navy and air force officers premiums of 5000 lire (about $410) each when they lead brides to the altar.

UNION ISSUE FLARES Local Workers Protest

Two disputed points came into the limelight today in the situation brought about by complaints that local steel workers cannot get work on the city hall now under construction.

On one side it is asserted that Orange county men cannot get employment unless they join the Los Angeles local of the reinforcement iron workers' union. On the same side it is contended that there are from 15 to 30 qualified steel workers in the county, capable of doing the city hall work.

V. W. Houghton, resident engineer inspector for the PWA, declares that there are no qualified steel workers in the county, so far as he has been able to determine.

Union Job

Mr. Houghton also said that the job has been declared a union job, that local men have been offered the opportunity of qualifying, and that they have not tried to do so. Union men and non-union men, un-

Commercial Fishermen Provide Opposition to Game Measure

Orange county sportsmen had their hopes of a fishing reserve along the county coast line revived today with the announcement that the state assembly fish and game commission had rescinded its former decision and approved the bill which would set up the preserve. The bill has been sponsored by Speaker Ted Craig of Brea.

While opponents of the measure felt today that they had won a distinct victory in gaining approval of the assembly committee, they are perturbed over the determined opposition to the bill that has arisen.

L. A. Man Threatens

When approval of the measure, by the committee, was announced Assemblyman Lyon of Los Angeles, voiced the opinion of opposing forces by declaring "we will kill it on the floor."

Lyon also charged that the bill is an "unwarranted encroachment on the rights of commercial fishermen" and added "don't worry, it will never get through the assembly."

Agitation for a fishing reserve along the coast has been continued for many years when it became evident that commercial (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

STATE MAY VOTE ON INSTITUTION IMPROVEMENTS

SPECIAL BOND ELECTION IS INDICATED

Recommendation Is Made by Gov. Legislature

SACRAMENTO, Wednesday, May 15. (AP)—A special election, probably late this summer, in which the voters would be asked to approve a bond issue for permanent improvements to state institutions will be recommended to the legislature by its joint tax steering committee.

The committee also will recommend that the same election the voters be asked to approve the principal of short term loans for financing of the state's current deficit, which is approaching the $27,000,000 mark.

This second step would be accomplished through an amendment to the constitution to permit the state to negotiate such borrowings.

The committee's agreement upon this last phase of its tax studies came today along with final approval of a new revenue program designed to balance the budget for the 1935-37 biennium and raise about $115,000,000 in new funds.

The total of short term loans would be predicated upon the size of the current deficit, and the amount of money which would be sought through the bond issue was left up to a sub-committee headed by Chairman Duval.

Change in SERA Setup Is Discussed Here

Advisability of reorganizing the local SERA setup under three heads—social service, finance and audit—to replace the present system, which there are seven main divisions, was discussed by the county SERA committee yesterday afternoon. Virgil Dahl, assistant to the state field representative for the SERA, indicated that the state would prefer a change in the organization.

MORE ABOUT FARMERS

said their demonstration in favor of the agricultural program—and against the critics who are seeking to alter it—was a success.

Drives to Climax
The program drove to a climax in the later afternoon when the 4000 men stood before the south portico of the white house, looked up at the president and whooped their enthusiasm as he told them the farm policies would continue.

The attire of the crowd below him was a study in contrasts. Some bronzed, lean men hitched the suspenders of their overalls and chewed tobacco; some wore their Sunday best, looking as if it just came out of the mail order bundle; others wore well-cut business suits. The applause ranged from handclaps to sounds reminiscent of hog-calling.

Part of Gathering
The men meeting today to discuss the new organization were only part of the farm gathering. They were chosen from among the 4000 to map a course of action.

The others were drifting out of the city in small groups. Special trains carrying some of them were to leave tonight. Last night and this morning, some of the farmers were strolling the streets, looking over the capital.

College Students Hear Dr. Benninghoff Of Waseda University

Dr. H. G. Benninghoff, English professor at Waseda, Japan, for the past 25 years, gave a general talk on the foreign country before associated students of Santa Ana junior college in an assembly at the First Baptist church today. The speaker was introduced by President D. K. Hammond of the junior college.

16 NURSES GET DIPLOMAS

Commencement ceremonies for 16 nurses graduating from the school of nursing at the Orange county hospital were held last night in the Women's club house in Orange, followed by a reception in the nurse's dormitory.

Dr. Harry Zaiser, superintendent of the hospital, presided, and introduced Dr. Clark Steen of Fullerton who gave the commencement address. Diplomas were awarded by Dr. Zaiser and Superintendent of Nurses Grace Elizabeth Lansing.

Certificates and diplomas were given to Vivian M. Bradbury, Hermosa Beach; Virginia L. Cameron, Bakersfield; Claire C. Codman, Anaheim; Shirley B. Criss, Anaheim; Claire E. Garrett, Fresno; Margaret Hess, Santa Ana; Thelma A. MacKinnon, Three Rivers, Calif.; Ella M. Middleton, Fullerton; Nancy E. Moore, Venice; Margaret E. Nickell, Artesia; Edith E. BUILDERS HEAR DR. RAWLINS

Pictures showing conditions in Russia were used to illustrate a talk given by Dr. William F. Rawlins at a meeting of the Orange County Builders exchange in the Elks club at Anaheim last night. Dr. Rawlins, appearing for the Constitution society of the United States, said the communist party has 1,000,000 dues payers in the United States and that there are 2,000,000 persons in this country ready to attempt to overthrow the government.

At the business session, presided over by Theron Means, president, committee reports were given by Al Honer, who spoke on legislative developments at Sacramento; G. W. MacFarlane, who reported on building codes; George Barrows, contractors' code; and William Dean, who said a membership drive is planned.

Two New Members
Leslie Parson of the Whitson Lumber company, and Harry R. McCoy of the McCoy Sheet Metal works at Tustin, were taken in as new members.

A letter was received from Congressman Sam Collins, in which he stated that if federal funds are allocated for armories, he will do his best to see that Orange county participates.

Al Foster was program chairman. Maurice Phillips, accompanied by Harry Garstang, sang two numbers. Later Marcel Mannon, contralto, accompanied by Elizabeth Heckman, sang.

MORE ABOUT FISH

fishermen were purse seining nearer and nearer to the coast line. This encroachment of commerce on what had long been considered the sport fisherman's territory, aroused civic and sports organizations in the county to the point where concerted action was determined upon.

Welch Sees Danger
Since introduction of the measure proposing to set up the fishing reserve, many representatives of the coast area have made trips to Sacramento on behalf of the measure. Included in the list of those who have been leading the fight are: Thomas Talbert, Huntington Beach; Mayor Smith, Santa Clemente and Harry Welch, secretary of the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Welch, who attended the recent hearing, before the assembly fish and game committee, at which the bill was unfavorably reported on, held grave fears that commercial interests would defeat the measure. He was one of those called to testify before the committee.

Welch also said that Assemblyman Lyon appeared before the committee as leader of the fight against the proposed reserve and presented letters also objecting to the proposed closing of "Long Beach Bay."

It was also pointed out by Welch that in his fight for the commercial fishermen Lyon presented statistics that needed correction. Speaker Craig appeared at the hearing to present the case for proponents of the reserve.

MINERALOGISTS MEET TONIGHT

Students of mineralogy from Los Angeles, Orange, and San Diego counties will convene tonight at 7:30 p. m. at the Julia Lathrop school to hear a talk on minerals by an out-of-town speaker. The meeting is open to the public.

COUNTY 20-30 CLUBS MEET

The Santa Ana 20-30 club was host last night to members of the other three clubs in the county at a meeting held in the American Legion hall. Approximately 150 members of the various clubs in the county attended.

The program consisted of a variety of numbers brought here from Los Angeles by Wayne Harrison, vice president and program chairman of the Santa Ana club. President Lawrence Mitchell of the Santa Ana club introduced as his guests Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison and Deputy Coroner Bert Casteix.

DAMAGE ACTION IS HALTED

When the damage action of Dwight Whiting against the Garden Grove school district comes up for trial in superior court next Tuesday it will go off calendar, according to information received here today. Both parties to the action have agreed on a nominal settlement of the $1500 claim.

The suit filed by Whiting dates back to the reconstruction period immediately after the earthquake of March, 1933. When reconstruction of the Garden Grove school was started after the quake it was necessary to find a location where debris could be dumped. Whiting owns property on what is now known as Harbor boulevard just north of Chapman avenue. At that time the property was under lease to a resident tenant who, it is alleged, gave the school district permission to dump the debris on the property for a consideration of $75.

Whiting claimed that the tenant had exceeded his leasing privilege and alleged damage to his property in a claim presented to the district. When the claim was denied he filed suit in superior court seeking $1500 damages.

MORE ABOUT SERA

father of eight children, who formerly had a $60 monthly budget with the SERA, said he had worked four days hoeing and thinning beets and had earned $11. Mr. Lopez said the reason he did not continue was that his knees were made sore by the work. He was referred to a case worker for possible assistance.

Stanley Carrillo of Delhi said he had been sent out three times by the NRS but had not found a job. He could have gone to work on the Montana ranch but would have had to travel 30 miles to the fields. Mr. Carrillo also said farmers act as contractors in some cases and when they are supposed to pay workers $4.50 per acre for beet thinning, they keep 50 cents in their roles as labor contractors. Mr. Carrillo said he will go to work picking oranges in a few days.

Urges Action
Mr. Delgado urged that men with large families be returned to the SERA and that field workers should be paid 30 cents an hour.

The committee informed the group that there has been no discrimination and that there also have been protests that American families have been discriminated against in the matter of budgets. The committee instructed the delegation to file their protests and their facts in writing and that the complaints will be investigated.

Penguins Serve as Models on Novel Exhibition at Fair

France's "Penguin Island" now has an illustrated supplement—what the well dressed penguin will wear. A color chart of suit ensembles, modeled on penguins of various complexions, was submitted today to the educational home-making exhibition of the San Diego exposition by the boys' practical arts class of the Santa Ana high school under Miss Myrtle Stark.

In the center of the poster is a color chart. Beside each color is an ensemble of suit, shirt, tie, and handkerchief to harmonize with the color.

On the wings of the poster are 12 penguins dressed in the latest fashion in colors that are flattering to blondes, red heads, brunettes, and those with white hair. For golf, street, or a formal party, the correct attire is on display.

The placard was designed and printed by Viola Rentschler. It is felt to be a compact presentation of what the boys learn about color harmony, fabrics, and styles in the practical arts class. Although the boys don't make suits, they do a good job of darning and sewing on buttons, according to Miss Stark.

NRA DEADLOCK THREATENED

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, May 15. (AP)—A deadlock threatened today over extension of the NRA.

Senate administration leaders insisted they would hold out for the 10 months' extension approved by the senate. House democratic chiefs gave no indication that they would accept anything less than the two years desired by President Roosevelt.

"I feel certain," Speaker Byrns told reporters, "that the house is disposed to insist upon a two-year extension."

"The attitude as we see it is this: If the NRA is worth extending at all, it is worth extending two years; if it isn't, it ought to be junked."

"We will take the bill up in the house as soon as the ways and means committee finishes with it. I hope the committee will report it in a properly modified form in a few days."

"There will be no necessity, I feel sure, to use a gag rule to get it through the house."

Chairman Harrison of the senate finance committee had warned that if the house changed the senate's 10 months' extension to two years, and the measure went to conference, he would refuse to accept the change and let the senate vote on the issue.

Indications were that the house would not pass the bill for a week or 10 days. That would leave three weeks or less for final action before the June 16 deadline, the day the NIRA expires.

7 H. S. PAPERS IN CONTEST

Seven weekly newspapers of Orange county high schools have entered the first annual journalism contest for high school papers of Orange county sponsored by the Santa Ana Junior college. It was announced today by John H. McCoy, junior college adviser.

Prizes will be awarded at the annual journalism banquet to be held at the junior college May 24, to which high school newspaper and yearbook editors and advisers have been invited. Judges for the contest are Mason Yould, Ray Arguello, and Floyd McCracken, managing editor of the Anaheim Bulletin. Awards will be given for the best front page, best sports page, best feature page, best news story, best sports story, best feature story, and best all-round paper.

Among the high school papers entered in the contest are Fullerton high school Weekly Pleaded, Anaheim high school Anoranco, Orange high school Reflector, Tustin high school Broadcaster, Brea-Olinda high school Wildcat News, Huntington Beach high school High Lights, and the Garden Grove high school Argo-Log.

Lee Shippey, Los Angeles columnist, will be the featured speaker at the banquet to which editors and publishers of Orange county newspapers also have been invited.

Hold Funeral Service In Los Angeles for Mother of Roy Shafer

Roy V. Shafer, vice president of the Orange County Title company, was in Los Angeles today to attend the funeral of his mother who passed away in her sleep sometime early Sunday morning, at her home, 1801 Kingsley drive, Los Angeles. The services were held at Pierce Brothers funeral chapel at 10 o'clock this morning, and the burial in the family plot in Rose-dale cemetery.

4211 on Local SERA Rolls Last Week

The SERA case load at the end of last week was 4211 according to a report by Director Terrence Halloran. The total number of cases on work relief was 3691. Total cost of all forms of SERA relief was $48,677.64.

DONALD JEROME NAMED HEAD OF B. P. O. E.

Director of charity projects that won the national acclaim for the Santa Ana Elks, No. 794, during the past year, Donald G. Jerome won an uncontested election to the post of exalted ruler at a meeting last night.

Reports on the special charity assignments, called "acts of friendship," were made bi-weekly to grand lodge by 1500 lodges in the United States. The most outstanding feat of each series of reports won a gold star from the lodge's record. Of 30 assignments, Santa Ana made three gold stars. Boise, Idaho, placed first with four awards.

Native of Tustin

A native of Tustin, Mr. Jerome was educated in Santa Ana schools from kindergarten through junior college. He is a member of Masons, Scouts, Lions club, and on the board of directors of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce. He was initiated into Santa Ana Elks in 1926 under William McKay.

William W. Garvin was elected esteemed lecturing knight, the only office for which there was any competition. Others chosen were V. L. Motry, esteemed leading knight; E. R. Majors, secretary; E. R. Abbey, treasurer; G. P. Campbell, trustee.

Features of the Mother's day program included a solo "Mother O'Mine," by A. J. Garraway, accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong and "Wonderful Mother of Mine," by the Elks double quartet, Charles Swanner, chaplain, gave an address on Mother's day.

SERA MEDICAL AID PLANNED

A plan whereby emergency medical and dental service for SERA workers would be provided at government expense by doctors who wish to participate in the project will be worked out in more complete detail by Director Terrence Halloran of the SERA as a result of a decision reached by the county SERA committee at its meeting yesterday.

W. W. Hay of Brea was named to represent the group on a general committee composed of members from various interested groups.

Three Aides Named

A letter from Dr. Dexter Ball informed the committee that the medical group has selected Dr. H. G. Huffman, Dr. M. K. Tedstrom and Dr. F. E. Earel of this city to work with the SERA in determining policies. Dr. Ball will represent the medical men on the general committee.

A beautification project for San Clemente was approved which would employ 14 men for 522 hours. Labor cost would be $3967 and material outlay $1399.

A project for a Legion memorial hall at Buena Park was held over pending a ruling on the question of the SERA assisting with purchase of materials.

Dan Milligan of Orange appeared to protest what he said are inequalities in budgets for SERA workers. He was asked to file his facts in writing.

FILE COOKSON ESTATE PLEA

Mrs. Sallie Connelly of Los Angeles has filed a petition in superior court asking appointment of the First National Bank of Orange as administrator of the estate of her daughter, the late Mrs. Virginia Lee Cookson, who died intestate April 20 in Del Rio, Tex., from injuries received in an automobile accident.

The petition places the value of real and personal property left by Mrs. Cookson at not more than $27,000, listing her deceased daughter's ranch in Modjeska canyon as having an annual income of $1000. Personal property was valued at $1500. In addition to the mother, Walter M. Cookson of Los Angeles, Mrs. Cookson's estranged husband, was listed as being the only other heir at law.

COURT BRIEFS

Mrs. Eula Lee Laughlin, Midway City, has filed a petition in superior court for appointment as administrator of the estate of her late husband, C. J. Laughlin, who died intestate May 2, 1935. She lists the estate as consisting of real and personal property valued at $4000.

Earl R. Abbey, acting as public administrator, has petitioned the court to appoint him administrator of the estate of James Fitzpatrick, who died February 12, 1931. The estate is valued at $8,750 and consists of Los Angeles property and an over-due mortgage on property at Ocean Park. In addition to the widow, Mrs. Rose Ana Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles and Mrs. Lillian Glaab of Santa Ana, a daughter, there are three other daughters and two sons, all living in Los Angeles.

Termination of the joint tenancy of the late Mrs. Cora B. Guthrie in the estate formerly held in joint tenancy by Mrs. Guthrie and her husband, the late William H. Guthrie, is sought in a petition filed in superior court by the daughter, Mrs. Maybelle Guthrie Washburn. Mrs. Guthrie died January 20, 1935 and was followed in death by her husband, February 27, 1935. The estate consists of cash, bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, stock in the Southern California Edison company, promissory notes and seven pieces of property in Southern California. Value of the estate was not estimated.

Suit for foreclosure of a mortgage on Santa Ana property to quiet title to the property and writ of possession was filed in superior court today by May Spurgeon Ballard naming Harriet M. Russell as defendant. The complaint alleges that Mrs. Russell was holding certain property under a contract to purchase and be allowed payments to become delinquent.

Patriotic Pageant to Feature Graduation Exercises in June

American history will be paraded when students from all classes of the Julia Lathrop junior high school cooperate to present the pageant, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," on the front lawn of the school as a part of graduation exercises in June.

Ten or 12 episodes covering the development of the United States from its beginning to the present will be produced under the direction of different teachers. The English department has written the play and the social service department outlined it.

From the landing of the Pilgrims, through the signing of the constitution, up to the modern era of sports and mechanics, the pageant will trace the progress of the country. Parts have not yet been assigned but it is planned to incorporate musical contingents.

GARDEN GROVE PARK DEVELOPMENT NEAR

PROJECT GIVEN APPROVAL OF CHAMBER

Cooperative Cannery Proposal Reported By Committee

GARDEN GROVE, Wednesday, May 15.—Discussions following committee reports on development of the park site and the proposed cooperative cannery marked last night's meeting of the chamber of commerce here.

Following a report by the park committee, L. W. Schauer, Charles Lake and W. V. Brady, a motion was passed instructing the committee to take immediate action toward development.

Two Proposals

E. J. Tobias reporting on the proposal of the government for establishing a cooperative cannery in Orange county stated that two proposals for its establishment in the Garden Grove area, Charles O. Connors. The first proposes use of the warehouse of George Lynch and the other for erection of a building on the east side of South Euclid avenue adjoining the Pacific Electric railway.

Definite action on the matter will be known by May 20, he stated, and it will be necessary to immediately raise $500 to be used in purchasing the property.

Mr. Tobias stated that were the cannery established here, it would employ 200 women and 50 men, and would be in operation 10 months of the year with a double shift being employed during nine weeks of that period.

$45,000 Equipment

Contracts are now being made for 500 acres of tomatoes to be used by the cannery. Equipment will cost $45,000 while the government is prepared to spend between $4200 and $4600. Surplus products over those used by the cooperative associations and the unemployed would be used by the CCC camps.

The chamber unanimously endorsed the program of the farm bureau and instructed the secretary to communicate with the county's representatives in the legislature concerning this endorsement.

Discuss Ordinance

An animated discussion on the proposed ordinance of the county planning commission for zoning unincorporated areas of the county was opened by W. O. Broady who stressed the "unfairness of presentation between city and county members of the commission."

Eight of the nine members of the city men, he stated. Supervisor John C. Mitchell answered that he believed a zoning ordinance necessary but that such an ordinance would be carefully checked by the board of supervisors.

Mr. Tobias reported that he had interviewed NRA officials in regard to regulations concerning opening and closing hours for Garden Grove stores and that inspectors would be here in the very near future to advise the merchants.

Dr. and Mrs. Soares Open Summer Home

New Recall Proposal Aired

PLACENTIA, Wednesday, May 15.—Discussion of a proposed bill now before the state legislature which would allow recall of members of boards of education featured the regular meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday.

S. James Tuffree, chairman of the legislative committee, offered a motion that state legislators from this district should be contacted and urged to support the bill and an amendment which would make a recalled official ineligible to hold office again. The motion was voted down by directors.

Warren Bradford, chairman of the board of education of the Placentia district, told members of another proposed bill which would not allow high school teachers to teach part-time in elementary schools. Bradford pointed out that such legislation would work a hardship on small school districts. Directors voted to write to State Senator N. T. Edwards and Speaker Ted Craig of the assembly urging negative action on the bill.

Resignation of Tuffree from the legislative committee was accepted by President H. H. Hale.

Queen Esther Society of Garden Grove Church Entertained

GARDEN GROVE, Wednesday, May 15.—Members of the Queen Esther society of the First Methodist church were treated to a dessert course upon arriving at the home of their leader, Mrs. Hilda Reafsynder, Monday evening.

Appointed as a nominating committee to report at the next meeting were Elva Ralston, Joyce Arkley, Fay Hunt and Evelyn Lamb. Myrtle Gardner presented the lesson on the subject of "Alaska." Leah Merchant conducted the devotions. The remainder of the evening was spent completing blocks for a quilt.

Others present were Dorothy Swenson, Isabel Briggs, Dorothy Gardner, Elizabeth and Doris Stout, Louise and Alma May Smiley, Ethel Chaffee, Marjorie Merchant, Fern and Joy Schnitger, Lois Reafsynder and Dorothy Graves.

Mrs. P. S. Virgin will review a play when members of the Book-lovers section of the Woman's Civic club meet Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. C. Robbins on East Garden Grove boulevard. The nominating committee, Mesdames Berna Delano McCracken, A. F. Kearns and Carl Nichols, will also make their report at that time. Mrs. A. J. Woodworth will act as co-hostess.

Mrs. Robert Hager presided at the meeting during the absence of Miss Whitfield who is a delegate at the state convention.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mildred Ridenour and Mrs. Hinkle.

Beach Chamber in Vote of Thanks to Members of Council

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Wednesday, May 15.—A series of events covering a period of three days will mark the return of the annual Poppy day sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary.

The entire program is arranged by the poppy chairman, Mrs. Rose Bruce.

A poppy rally at Memorial hall beginning at 8 p. m. on May 23 will open the meeting of the auxiliary.

On May 24 the Legion auxiliary will stage a poppy dance at Memorial hall, and on May 25 poppies will be sold by the poppy committee on Poppy day. Booths will be opened at various places in the city for the day.

A benefit dessert-bridge will be held by the Legion auxiliary in the auxiliary rooms of Memorial hall on May 17, it was announced today by Mrs. D. E. Barry, president of the auxiliary.

SAN CLEMENTE PUPILS WILL GIVE PLAY

SAN CLEMENTE, Wednesday, May 15.—The San Clemente grammar school eighth grade may be small but it is a "thousand strong." Only four eighth graders in the class, yet the group has plans for graduation week which would put many city classes to shame.

Not satisfied just to produce a little play, the four, Ollie Jeanes, Beatrice Swigart, Leonard Sites, and Robert Longbotham have written a three-act play called "Till We Meet Again" and will present it in the school auditorium Wednesday evening, May 22. Floyd Lindsey is superintending the action of the play but, he says, "the children do it all themselves and do it well." Cast in the production are Ollie Jeanes, Beverly Umland, Dorothy Swigart, Virginia Peterson, Leonard Sites, Donnie Divil, Charles Sites, Benoni Green, Allan Plum, Margaret Jeanes, Donald Amundson, Barbara Hogeland, Isabelle Murphy, Raymond Murphy, Arlo Westbrook, and Norma Adair. Of course, they wrote such an ambitious play that it was necessary to call in many of the other grade children to perform in it.

Friday evening, May 24, they will hold a "class prom" in the social clubhouse, and the following Wednesday graduating exercises will climax the week's celebration.

PLACENTIA, Wednesday, May 15.—All freshmen may be required to attend Valencia high school next year, instead of attending other schools in the county, it was indicated at a meeting of the board of education yesterday when members decided to intend Fullerton school officials not to prepare for any first-year students from the Placentia district.

Members of the board discussed possibility of erecting two four-room buildings at the rear of the Valencia high school plant now being constructed to care for additional pupils. Chairman Warren M. Bradford pointed out that the two proposed units could be built at a cost of approximately $5000 each and would be finished in about 17 days.

BIG TELEPHONE DIVIDEND IS AUTHORIZED

NEW YORK, Wednesday, May 15. (AP)—The American Telephone and Telegraph company today authorized the usual quarterly dividend of $2.25 on the capital stock. The distribution will amount to nearly $42,000,000.

The dividend is payable July 15 to stock of record June 15.

While the company's income has continued insufficient to meet the requirements for the $9 annual dividend, financial quarters had been reasonably confident that the regular payments would be ordered. This expectation rested upon the company's steady gain in new telephones installed during the past year, in harmony with the general recovery trend.

For the quarter ended March 31 net income was $30,079,288, equivalent to $1.61 a share, this compared with $32,992,340 or $1.77 a share in the first quarter last year. Increased labor and operating costs counteracted a considerable part of the gain in business.

STARS COP OPENER FROM OLIVE; OILERS DOWN ANAHEIM

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

Opening shorts picked up at the night ball premier last night: Mayor Fred Rowland and Chief of Police Floyd Howard slipped one over on the boys and the gang in the bleachers when it came to tossing the first ball, historic signal for the starting of the league.

Without waiting for a batter (who couldn't have hit it any way) the dignitaries went through their ritual of tossing and catching even without, mind you, the benefit of umpiring. Just walked up there, did their trick and skipped, the rascals. And we had prepared to write columns about the mayor's technique from the hill and the chief's backstop ability, but we were going for a peanut when they took the field and the next thing we knew it was all over.

It was popular with the fans, however—that is those that saw it.

Jim Coates is going to be the hero of the league if he keeps up the kind of work he did last night. His plate performance was well above the standard expected of pitchers on this hill toiling was a thing of beauty. He has fan appeal, too.

We've been told that Chico Sabella, of Huntington Beach is the class of the league, but it's our prediction that he'll have to be No. 2 man in popularity to the smiling, lanky Coates.

That gallant pitcher rapped out a triple that scored one of his teammates in the sixth for the most dramatic moment of the game.

He got more sympathy than a jilted old maid when one of his bunts earlier in the game proved to have too much reverse English on it and rolled foul by an inch.

Comment and speculation were rife among the clients when Leavitt Daley was noticed wearing a Star uniform. Manager Bill Cole said the popular batter had just dropped in suddenly and reported for duty.

It is quite possible that he will find a place in the lineup . . . still not much is being said on the subject as yet.

Francis Conrad, shifted from right field to short stop in the middle of the game, came near being the hero of the evening by coming up with three nice returns of speedy balls.

Hill of the Olives, for some reason unknown to us, got the cheer of the evening when he beat out an infield single late in the contest. He made a cute bow, too.

Alvin Rebois is still great box office and has a flare for coming through at the right time as he did in his local grid days. His hammer-and-tongs homer in the third scored the only two runs chalked up by the visitors.

And from then on he was huz-zahed upon each appearance at the plate.

SPRINT, SHOT RECORDS IN DANGER

Southern California Prep Meet Scheduled for L. A. Coliseum

Only two records—the 220 and shot put—will be threatened with the holding of the twenty-third annual Southern California high school track and field finals in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday.

The Southland prep record of 21.4 seconds in the furlong, held jointly by two of the best sprinters of all time—Frank Wykoff and George Anderson—may be broken by the fleet Bill Gregory of Long Beach, who ran 21.5 last week. Brainard Worrill, Pasadena Muir-Tech, is capable of 21.6 or better.

Raitt Eyes Mark Fullerton's John Raitt, who is heating the 12-pound shot past 54 feet consistently, hopes to break the record of 54.7 set by John Lyman of Santa Monica in 1930. One good thing about the Fullerton boy, he does not fold up when a big meet comes along.

Capt. Bill Hawkins, Santa Ana's chief hope, may better his individual effort of 15.2 seconds in the 120-yard high hurdles, but he has slim chance of breaking or tying LeRoy Kirkpatrick's mark of 14.5.

Santa Ana's qualifiers for the finals, in addition to the rangy Hawkins, are Bob Reif, low hurdles; Herschel Whitney, Class B 1320; Tom Matzen, Class B 220; Dwight Nott, Class B, low hurdles; and Cameron Gillis, Class B broad jump.

The records:

100-yard dash—Milton Holt (Glendale) 1932, 9.7 sec.

220-yard dash—Frank Wykoff (Glendale) 1932, 12.7 sec.

440-yard dash—Myrel Gillett (El Centro) 1932, 14.3 sec.

880-yard dash—Raymond Cartwright (Santa Ana) 1932, 1 min. 56.6 sec.

1 mile run—Louis Zamperini (Torrey) 1934, 4 min. 21.5 sec.

High hurdles—LeRoy Kirkpatrick (El Centro) 1934, 14.5 sec.

Low hurdles—Jim Payne (San Bernardino) 1936, and LeRoy Kirkpatrick (El Centro) 1934, 23.8 sec.

Half-mile relay—Manual Arts (Los Angeles) 1934, 1 min. 27.7 sec.

Shot put—John Lyman (Santa Monica) 1930, 51 ft. 7 in.

Discus—Clarence Houser (Oxnard) 1932, 147 ft. 6 in.

High jump—Cornelius Johnson (L. A. high) 1932, 6 ft. 5 1/2 in.

Broad jump—Don Skinner (Manual Arts) 1936, 26 ft. 10 1/2 in.

Pole vault—Bill Sefton (L. A. Poly) 1932, 13 ft. 3 1/2 in.

BIRKOFER MAY AID PIRATES IN CHASE

By HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe big Ralph Birkofer will fill that large hole in the Pittsburgh Pirates' southpaw pitching staff after all.

When the Pirates sent Larry French and Freddie Lindstrom to the Chicago Cubs for Guy Bush, Jim Weaver and Babe Herman, Manager Pie Traynor evidently was counting heavily upon Birkofer to take charge of all the left-handed pitching the club would need.

For a time this spring, it looked as though the Pirates had made a bad guess for Birkofer couldn't get untracked. It was not until yesterday that the young left-hander succeeded in pitching a complete game and in chalking up his first victory.

Shut Out Averted Birkofer gave the Phillies 11 hits but was so effective in the clinches that it was not until the eighth that a double by Ethan Allen and a single by John Moore saved them from a shutout.

The Pirates, in hitting form, shelled the reformed infielder, Bill (Bucky) Walters, and John Pizzullo for 14 hits and won, 8-1.

The victory was the Pirates' sixth in 11 games in the east and left them a game and a half behind the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals.

This was the only National league game that escaped the weather man's persistent jinx and only two American league contests could be played.

Yankees Downed Getting good pitching from Alvin Crowder, the Detroit Tigers made it two in a row from the New York Yankees, 10 to 4, and climbed to within a single game of the Yankees and Washington Senators who are tied for fourth position.

The champions, hopping on Johnny Broaca for three runs in the first and on Russ Van Atta for three more in the third, two coming in on walks with the bases filled, never were in trouble. Crowder allowed ten hits where they would do the least damage.

Second place Cleveland got three hit-pitching from Mel Harder and beat the Senators, 4-2. Hal Trosky's fifth home run with two on in the sixth was the blow that wrecked the Senators and Earl Whitehill. The victory put the Indians within a game of the Chicago White Sox.

SULLIVAN TO BAER A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

SULLIVAN VS. RYAN—1882

The first generally recognized world heavyweight champion appears on the fistie horizon—Boston's Strong Boy, the great John L. Sullivan. Amid great secrecy, after the site had been shifted several times, Sullivan knocked out Paddy Ryan, a six-foot, 200-pound claimant of the American title, in a field outside of Mississippi City, Miss., on February 7, 1882, in nine rounds—exactly 11 minutes of fighting. Fighting with bare knuckles, with a round terminating automatically when either of the warriors was knocked down, thrown down, or slipped deliberately to one knee, the giant Boston bully battered Ryan so badly that his seconds threw in the sponge to save their man from possibly fatal injuries. Ryan never fought again, while Sullivan went on to recognition as one of the greatest of the ring's rough and tumble gladiators.

PROTESTS FOLLOW BARRING OF 'BABE' FROM TOURNEY

ABILENE, Tex., Wednesday, May 15. (AP)—A chorus of protest arose in Texas today against the United States Golf association ruling Mildred Babe Didrikson may not compete as an amateur.

Babe, the wonder girl athlete of the 1932 Olympics, accepted the decision philosophically, although with surprise and obvious disappointment.

"Bad mistake," "big joke," "dirty deal," and harsher words came from Dallas where members of the Texas Professional Golfers association were in session.

Miss Didrikson's home club at Beaumont, however, took a stronger stand, demanding detailed reasons for the findings of the national golf organization which resulted in refusal of her entry in the southern women's championship to be played at Louisville, Ky., beginning May 20. The club asked for a hearing and officials announced they were ready to fight.

"How can they call me a professional when I've been competing only a few months?" asked Miss Didrikson, here for an exhibition match.

She said her professional career in other sports ended nearly a year ago. But she added: "What the U. S. G. A. says, goes, and there's nothing I can do about it."

"Sure, I'm going to remain out of professional sports, and ask for reinstatement as an amateur when the time comes. I don't know yet if my disbarment will be only for a year or for three years."

The U. S. G. A. ruling also barred her from the national tournament.

Amateurs will appear on attractive cards at the club on Highway 101 every Thursday night, according to Steffler, who replaces J. H. "Bud" Rutledge. Steffler has not indicated which boxers will fight on the opening or other programs, but the weekly cards will be made as popular as those of past seasons, he said.

Alterations are now being made at the arena and gymnasium.

Matchmaker Steffler comes here from the Orange Belt Athletic club of San Bernardino, and previously was affiliated with the Ontario and Calexico arenas.

FIGHT MARKS RED-ACORN CONTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, May 15. (AP)—Walter Beck, Mission Red hurler, is nursing a black eye today as a memento of the Pacific Coast league game at Oakland last night, in which it took three burly policemen to save him from the wrath of little Frankie Hawkins, 19-year-old Oakland third sacker.

"You've been riding me long enough," yelled Hawkins when Beck glibbed him for missing Al Wright's intended sacrifice to fill the bases in the second. The little infielder charged the Mission bench and started swinging on Beck. Over the protests of Manager Gabby Street of the Missions, the law moved in and stopped the fight.

Beck entered the game in the sixth, with his shiner very much in evidence, and hurled the cellar Reds to a 6-to-4 victory over the league leaders.

D. Maggio Helps Seals "Deadpan" Joe Di Maggio cut off two runs at home plate with rifle-like throws from deep right field, to help his San Francisco teammates nose out Portland, 3 to 2. His throws were the deciding factor in a pitchers' battle between Jim Densmore of the Seals and Jake Wade of the Ducks.

Big Ed Wells, southpaw Hollywood hurler, had the Sacramento club eating out of his hand last night. He held the Solons to four hits while his mates were gathering nine at the expense of Tom Flynn, to win 2 to 1.

The Angels took their eleventh straight game with a wild 12 to 3 win from Seattle. The game saw a total of 26 hits and five errors and put Los Angeles only two games behind Oakland for the circuit leadership.

After a shaky first two innings in which they dropped behind the Anaheim Valencia's, Joe Rodgers' Huntington Beach Oilers grabbed their chapter of the National Night Ball league opening at Anaheim last night, 11 to 7.

A single by Comstock scored Seacord in the first frame and an error by Manager Rogers let in two more Valencia runs. The 1934 champions did not catch up until the sixth when they tallied six runs on some wild pitching.

Three men were walked and one error chased in another run. Bushman was blasted from the mound in this inning, but O'Donnell who replaced him was greeted by Rogers' double that scored Rogers and Smith.

Chico Sabella, No. 1 moundswoman of Long Beach, struck out 11 of the Anaheim swatters, but was nipped for 11 hits.

WESTMINSTER AVIATORS WIN AT LONG BEACH, 8-2
Keeping step with Santa Ana and Huntington Beach in the "Big Three" of pre-schedule ratings, Westminster's stubborn Aviators, behind the stellar pitching of "Fuzzy" Errington, outscored the improved Long Beach Admirals, 8-2, in the opener at Long Beach last night.

George Lackaye's Flyers confined their scoring to the first and third innings with two four-run rallies. Long Beach scored its pair in the fifth.

Change in climate apparently did Santa Ana's "Eeny" Wilcox some good. Catching his first game for Long Beach, he hammered out two hits at bat.

Rogers and Young Guy of the Admirals also got to Errington for two bingles. Deane Downer went moundward for Long Beach, but soon gave way to Wilbur Stinchfield, ex-Santa Ana, who blanked the Flyers.

Ingenuity of Santa Anans Displayed in Charming Home Gardens

MORE THAN 200 WOMEN INSPECT GARDENS ON Y. W. C. A. TOUR

Some 200 Santa Ana women took advantage of the Santa Ana Women's Christian association section annual garden tour and tea to visit nine of the many lovely gardens in the Broadway park section of the community, yesterday.

First on the list of gardens visited was that of Mrs. William E. Otis at 2226 Victoria drive. Here one sees a walled in patio with octagonal tiled fountain, fern and begonia garden and border of vivid geraniums and small flowering plants. Mrs. Otis has used potted ivy to distinct advantage on the walls of an archway on one side of the patio. Her front lawn is a flawless expanse of green, with tastefully arranged shrubbery lining the house walls.

Wall of Shrubbery
What can be done by way of having privacy on a small lot is to be seen at the Frank Paterson home, 2415 Heliotrope drive. A solid wall of shrubbery protects the garden against invasion of the outside world, and an outdoor fireplace, blue tiled effects on the wall and comfortable garden furniture add to its appearance. The blue color note is repeated throughout the yard.

Mrs. A. W. Rutan's garden at 2415 Heliotrope drive is interesting in its broadness over a perfectly level yard with barbecue pit, large open-air fireplace and shrubbery, to a second lot which is now being planted in a formal pattern with a rose garden and room for badminton courts for the family.

Mrs. R. E. Langley has taken advantage of the river at the back of her home, 2453 Riverside drive, to terrace the back garden with paths reminiscent of the Huntington gardens' Japanese landscaping. A quiet pool shaded by tall willows and cottonwoods, a palm-roofed summerhouse and quantities of delicate ferns enhance her garden.

An Imitation
"Come back next year and see how we've progressed," was the Heber Fowlers' invitation to visitors at their very attractive early California type home at 615 West Santa Clara. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler have already created an almost ideally arranged home, and their garden which is in process of being made, promise to be entirely satisfying. They, too, use ivy effectively on their brick-floored front porch, and their ivy is in large pots without bottoms so the roots can penetrate to the earth and flourish accordingly.

Mrs. Ed Wagner has followed the German idea of privacy in the garden in designing their yard at 2046 North Flower street. They have a formal pool and fountain, pretty shrubbery, and the entire garden is suggestive of much careful and successful planning.

An informal fountain, shrubbery and vivid flowers have created an inviting garden at the home of Mrs. Dean Waynick, 1908 North Flower street. Here as in the other gardens the effectiveness of California flowers is to be felt.

Patient Care
Much loving and patient care has gone into the "outdoor living room" of the Dr. C. T. Cleland home at 1010 North Broadway, one feels. Particularly are the garden's begonias choice, and the perfectly tended flowers indicate a gardener who not only gives much time to her garden, but who conserves space and plans cleverly in it.

"A very good small garden" is the comment made by the Y. W. C. A. on the garden of Mrs. George Parker, 511 South Van Ness. This garden shows what charm can be created in the average small garden. A pleasant little pool shaded by a weeping willow was one feature of the setting, which suggests an enthusiastic gardener's work.

Tea at Gerrards
The last of the day was spent tea at the Hugh Gerrard home at Victoria drive. Mrs. Clarence and Mrs. W. F. Kisting, Mrs. Helen Segerstrom, Mrs. Charles Essler, and Mrs. Rose Havelly were on the tea committee.

Mrs. C. F. Smith planned the social program, which included a symphony trio, Mrs. Calvin and Mrs. Walter Spicer and Mrs. Audrey Pelter, and by the Santa Ana high school girls' sextet directed by Mary Batten Stefensen. In the sextet are Mary Jane Belcher, Nina June Robertson, Betty Neff, Ruth Switzer, Judith Ruley and Mabel Young, with Helen Holmes as accompanist.

Much credit goes to Mrs. M. B. Wellington and Miss Lena Thomas for their general supervision of the tea, and to Mrs. Alan Revell, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mrs. T. E. McLeod, Mrs. J. L. McBride, Mrs. Ray Adkinson, Mrs. E. B. Sprague, Mrs. Franklin West, Mrs. Charles Swanner, Mrs. Wendell Finley and assisting hostesses at the various homes.

Definite announcement will be made soon as to the second tea and tour the association is to sponsor this month.

An unexpected feature of the afternoon, shared by a number of the "tourers" was a tour of the garden of Mrs. Frank Henderson on Riverside drive. Mrs. Henderson graciously opened her garden to the garden-tour guests, who noted that it was especially attractive.

Fourteen students from Miss Ada McFadden's Santa Ana high school botany class visited the gardens, making the trip in a special school bus.

Banking Institute Plans Annual Dinner Dance

Approximately 200 members of the Orange County Institute of Banking will hold their annual dinner and dance in the San Clemente Golf clubhouse Saturday evening, June 8. Merle N. Hall, president of the association and an official in the Santa Ana Bank of America will open the meeting, welcoming speech will be made by Mayor A. T. Smith of San Clemente. A program of music will be presented by the San Clemente hosts. Little Jackie Robertson, 13, young Orange county musician, will present an accordion solo, a Mexican dance and songs. Jackie plays five instruments, dances and sings. Mrs. O. R. Robertson, mother of Jackie, and a former grand opera singer in England, will sing. Both will be accompanied by Mrs. Jewell Irene Chalk.

Ronald Upton Talks At P. T. A. Meeting Held Yesterday

Ronald Upton, superintendent of Buena Park schools, addressed the Wilson Parent-Teacher association yesterday on the subject of "Crisis in Education." Bruce Ragan of Willard junior high school played several piano numbers. Fourth grade students under Miss Frances Corson sang, and mothers of that class were hostesses for the day.

Taking the president's place, Mrs. Ed Hagthorn, vice president, and Mrs. H. C. Brown will represent the organization at the state convention of parents and teachers this month in San Diego.

Laguna Woman's Club To Elect Officers Friday Afternoon

Annual election of officers of the Laguna Beach Woman's club will be held in the clubhouse Friday afternoon. Preceding the business meeting, a board of directors' meeting will be held, followed by a luncheon.

D. U. V. President Complimented By Tent

Featuring the meeting of Sarah A. Rounds tent No. 10, officers of Union Veterans, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. L. L. Hill, president.

An oil painting was presented the honoree by officers. A decorated birthday cake and ice cream were served.

Plans were made for the mother-daughter banquet to be held in the community house of the First Christian church on Friday, May 17.

U. D. C. Chapter To Meet Tomorrow

Emma Sansome chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will have its meeting postponed from last week tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Victor Montgomery, 1418 North Main street.

Mrs. Lillian K. Pritchard and Mrs. J. K. Norton will present echoes from the state convention held last week in Berkeley.

SMART STYLE NOTE STRUCK IN CROCHET ACCESSORIES

THIS YOUNG lady is smartly garbed with her chic sailor peaked over the eye and gloves with graceful deep cuffs. Both are of mercerized crochet cotton and give a final touch to the smartness of a suit or sports skirt. Directions for making the smart hat and gloves shown above will be given on tomorrow's society page.

Musical Arts Club Sates Luncheon

The Musical Arts club will have a 12 noon luncheon Friday at the Vise studios, 1315 1/2 North Main street, and in the afternoon, a program on Germany and German music.

Mrs. John Tressman will discuss Germany. Holly Lash Vise will do a group of German "lieder," assisted at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

W. C. T. U. Hears Talk on Milk at Meeting

That milk provides greater food value than any other item of diet was stated by Glenn Tidball of the Excelsior Creamery at a meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday afternoon in the chapel of First Methodist church. "Health and child welfare" was the subject of the meeting.

Miss Emily Cox talked on health, and Mrs. Rena Gibson read a paper on child welfare. Her two sons played two numbers on the piano. The Rev. A. E. Kelly of the United Presbyterian church gave the devotion.

Announcement of the Gold Medal contest to conclude the series of oratorical contests in city schools was given as May 25 in the Willard auditorium. County director Mrs. C. D. Hicks has been in charge of the contests.

A vocal duet was sung by Mrs. Lydia Scharr and Mrs. Laura Leonard. Mrs. Amy Evans, president, officiated.

June 11 has been set for the date of the next meeting when "The Flower Mission" and "Motion Pictures" will be the subject. Mrs. Edith Moore and Mrs. Clare M. Coleman will be in charge.

P. T. A. Gives Check To Mrs. Crawford For Convention

Presentation of a check to pay her expenses at the state convention of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in San Diego this month was made to Mrs. E. H. Elms, president-elect, at the meeting of the high school P. T. A. last night.

Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth, retiring president, was awarded her past president's pin by Lynn H. Crawford, newly-elected principal of the high school.

LET'S READ A NEW BOOK!

By VERA RAMSEY
Book Reviews from the Public Library

TEN THOUSAND PUBLIC ENEMIES, by Courtney Ryley Cooper.

The department of justice agents are the heroes of this new book on gangland. We see them during the most painstaking checking of telephone calls, tracing lone fingerprints picked up on beer bottles, and guns traced through a score of shady dealers. There is the more dramatic business of shadowing "gun molls," of ambushes laid and traps sprung.

The careers of the famous gangsters are told in a light less glorious than in some accounts, but none the less exciting. The activities of Frank Nash and his associates read like fiction. The account of the final gun battle between the federal agents and Ma Barker holds the reader breathless. The chase and final capture of Baby Face Nelson, Machine Gun Kelly and John Dillinger are described in detail. In the drama of the battle one never loses sight of the tremendous efficiency of the government men.

It is this emphasis that makes this one of the best books on crime to be written in many years.

A MAN CALLED CERVANTES, by Bruno Frank Translated by H. T. Lowe Porter.

There is true magic in the pages of this book. The reader finds himself living in the atmosphere of the 16th century. Rome with its papal organization, Spain under Philip, and the counter ambitions of Don John of Austria unfold before us with true drama. Best of all, however is the recreation of the central figure, Miguel de Cervantes.

Young, likable, ambitious, Cervantes is convincing, breathing personality. His life is varied and interesting. There is the highly stirring action of Lepanto contracted with the idyllic interlude at Lucca. Throughout it all we sympathize with his frustration of worldly ambition which was turned into a book that was destined to become immortal.

Bruno Frank has not only pictured very successfully a period in the past. In addition he has told a fascinating story full of action and beauty.

OTHER RECENT BOOKS WHERE NOTHING EVER HAPPENS, by Lee Shippey. The famous columnist of the Los Angeles Times makes a small California town a showcase of human nature.

CITY EDITOR, by Stanley Walker. This is the liveliest of all biographies—the life story of a newspaper headline.

WHY WAR MUST CEASE, This symposium shows that war is false in theory, brutal in application and demoralizing to the human race.

COME AND GET IT, by Edna Ferber. This popular author gives us a tumultuous and exciting novel in the epic of America.

IN THE SHADOW OF LIBERTY, by Edward Corsi. Here is the parade of 25,000,000 souls who come to Ellis Island as the gateway to liberty and opportunity.

NEW MINDS FOR OLD, by Esme Wingfield-Stratford. The author outlines actual steps and principles for attaining this new art of living.

CASTLE IN ANDALUSIA, by Elizabeth Sprague. This is the story of the strange and thrilling adventure that happened to the English bride of a Spanish nobleman.

LEAVES FROM A GREENLAND DIARY, by Ruth Bryan Owen. We are given a quaint picture of the Greenlanders set against a background of strange, scenic grandeur.

SHIPS, by Hendrik Van Loon. Hendrik Van Loon, in this book, answers hundreds of questions about the sea and ships, about which all of us have often wondered.

THE CURTAIN FALLS, by Joseph Verner Reed. Backstage with a producer we see intimately personalities, plays and problems of the modern theatre.

PEACE AND THE PLAIN MAN, by Norman Angell. Clearly and impartially, a great publicist discusses the armament question and the problem of peace pacts for the ordinary reader.

SOUTHWEST, by Laura Adams Armer. The author, deeply versed in the ways of our great desert, wanders in her own wisdom a key to the beauty of each natural marvel of the old Indian civilization.

Officers Elected by Trojan Women of County

Officers were elected at the meeting of the Orange county Trojan Women's club Monday night at the home of Mrs. Carrie B. Wells, 805 South Sycamore.

Miss Martha Allen Lee, former Amazon, now active in the Beta Sigma Omicron chapter at U. S. C., was chosen president. Mrs. Le Roy Burns, retiring president, was selected vice president; Miss Marcia Carmichael, secretary, and Miss Stella Youm, treasurer.

Decision to hold a benefit in October was made on the report of the successful bridge benefit held this evening.

North County Women to Honor Pioneers at Annual Party

Women of Grace parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, will pay their annual tribute to pioneers of northern Orange county when they entertain with a pioneer luncheon Saturday in Placencia Round Table clubhouse. Invitations are now out among the pioneers, who each year meet at the invitation of the Native Daughters and recall former days.

Mary Bowyer To Lead Group

Miss Mary Bowyer will be leader, and Mrs. Virgil Harmon, secretary of Santa Ana Junior Ebell music, art and drama section, it was decided in an election held last evening at the Bowyer home on Van Bibber street, Orange.

Miss Bowyer will succeed Mrs. Wendell Finley. Miss Betty Bondy has served as secretary for the group this year.

In the program hour, Miss Florence Brownridge gave an informative talk on the use of gold leaf in the seventeenth century and in modern times. She displayed a most artistic jewel box she had made, and demonstrated the application of gold leaf.

Unexpectedly the conversation turned to puppetry and the hostess was prevailed on to show some of her own puppets which she makes and uses to illustrate children's stories in her work in the Santa Ana branch library on South Main street. The impromptu exhibit was greatly enjoyed.

Miss Bowyer served a salad course with hot biscuits and coffee.

Fourteen members were present at the meeting, which closed the section's activities for the year.

Two One-Act Plays to Be Presented at Clubhouse

Two clever one-act plays with prologues will feature the May production of the Peter Pan Players Friday evening and Saturday afternoon in the Ebell clubhouse. "The Enchanted Maypole" tells of carefree children in the New England village of Merrymonth, and the Maypole festivities. Betty Ellen Mitchell plays the demure Puritan maid, and Jack Foust the cruel Governor Endicott who captures the Maypole dancers.

Tommy Sutton, Lois Wright, Betty Jane Moore, Glenn Sharp, Farla Nell Clayton, Elbert Stewart, Emmert Morgan, Betty Blossom Goble and Junior Kavanaugh are to take part in the play.

Mrs. Ted Davis (Venita Vian) is directing the dancing. Julian D. Mathews' junior orchestra will provide music.

Accompanists for the various dances will provide music throughout the program. Mrs. Harry Wetherell, Gene Goble and William Beeman are the accompanists. Hazel Nell Bemus has charge of costumes. Estelle Card Beeman is general director.

Last Lathrop P. T. A. Meeting Features Musical Program

Musical numbers by the Lathrop little ensemble under Mrs. Edith Cornell and the Girls' Glee club under Mrs. Maxine Byrte, were features of the last Lathrop P. T. A. meeting this year held yesterday afternoon.

Miss Mary Porter, Girl Reserve secretary, talked on summer camps and new officers were introduced to the group. On behalf of the executive board, H. G. Nelson, principal, presented Mrs. Dale Griggs, retiring president, with a complimentary gift.

A display of aprons, shorts, pajamas, and dresses, made by students in Miss Henrietta Foster's sewing class, was exhibited. Hostesses from the eighth grade cooking class who served with Mrs. Ethel Sinke included Jean Thwait, Margaret Rice, Peggy Holloway, Frances Ross, Jean Hoffman, Patsy Miller, Charlotte Mead and Barbara Fitzgerald.

Geraldine Gilbert presented a group of readings at the Wrycende Maedonnu supper meeting last night in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. Her numbers included "She Powdered Her Nose" (Edgar Guest); "The Usual Way," and "The Young Man Waited While She Powdered Her Nose."

Community singing with Miss Helen Glancy at the piano, concluded the meeting. Installation of officers will be combined with a program for mothers next Tuesday. A garden benefit will be held Saturday at the home of Miss Betty Roehm on Newport road.

FILLED ANGEL FOOD CAKE

By Mrs. W. E. R. Crawford

Whip 1 1/4 cups chilled egg whites to a froth. Whip in 3/4 teaspoon of cream of tartar and 1/4 teaspoon of salt. Continue whipping until very stiff, but not dry. One cup of granulated sugar that has been sifted twice is then added gradually with the same whipping motion. Fold in 1/4 teaspoon of almond flavoring, and then 1 cup of pastry flour and 1/2 cup of sugar, that has been sifted four times. Bake in a tube pan in a slow oven for fifty to sixty minutes. Cool in pan. Remove from pan, and with forks remove the inside of the cake, leaving a shell, sufficiently thick to hold together well. Tear the inside portion into small parts and mix with:

1 cup whipped cream
1 cup pineapple, diced
1 cup coconut

1/2 pound marshmallows cut in small pieces.

12 marachino cherries, chopped. Fill cake with mixture and let stand for twelve hours in refrigerator. When ready to serve, place a cupful of chopped walnut meats over the top, cover with whipped cream, and garnish with cherries.

BROWNIES

By Mrs. Minnie Cowan

Melt two squares of bitter chocolate and 1/2 cup of butter. Blend 1/2 cup flour and 1/2 cup of sugar.

Beat up two eggs and mix in with sugar and flour. Add 1 cup of nut meats. Stir in chocolate and butter mixture.

Spread over greased pan 1/2 inch thick and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Bake about two minutes in medium oven. When cool, cut in squares.

PIMIENTO SALAD

By Mrs. William Snelley

All ingredients for this salad must be ice-cold. Use one small can of red pimientos, four hard-boiled eggs and chopped-up lettuce to taste. Mince pimientos and eggs and mix with lettuce, adding salt and pepper.

For dressing use 1/2 cup sour cream, into which mix on raw egg. Boil, and carefully stir in 1/2 cup vinegar which has been boiled and cooled. Salt and pepper dressing. Pour dressing onto salad and place on ice for 15 minutes before serving.

The salad with hot rolls and coffee makes a delicious salad course for card parties.

Two Members Taken Into Section

Two new members, Mrs. S. A. Jones and Mrs. O. H. Umbeham, were taken into the fifth household economics section at the luncheon meeting yesterday in the Ebell clubhouse. Mrs. C. V. Davis, president, and Mrs. Frank Paterson, curator of the general club, were special guests of the day.

Mrs. Frank Mead, Mrs. Good Adams and Mrs. P. B. Gillespie were luncheon hostesses. Spring flowers were used on the tables.

Mrs. Dean Waynick conducted the business session and later gave an informal travelogue on her recent Honolulu trip.

A surprise package went to Mrs. Herbert Krahling.

Bridge was played. Mrs. C. B. Hill and Miss Clara Richards won prizes.

Also present were Mrs. D. E. Liggett, Mrs. B. J. McReynolds, Mrs. Carl Klatt, Mrs. George Raymer, Mrs. D. A. Harwood, Mrs. Howard L. Stone, Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer, Mrs. H. Clifford Kirk, Mrs. Anna Reahm, Mrs. Ellis Diehl, Mrs. Ann Bowman and Mrs. L. E. Allen.

SUPERVISORS MAP $242,000 ROAD PROGRAM FOR STATE APPROVAL

HIGHWAY BODY TO RECEIVE PROJECTS

Mitchell Given Task of Numbering as to Importance

With county road projects totaling $242,000 ready for submission to the state highway commission for approval, members of the board of supervisors, late yesterday, unofficially appointed Chairman John C. Mitchell to the task of numbering the various projects in importance for state consideration.

The projects are to be submitted to the highway commission for approval under the program of improving "feeder" roads into the main highways, the improvement to be paid from PWA funds. S. V. Cortelyou, engineer for the state highway commission, has indicated that Orange county's share of this fund will be approximately $65,000.

In submitting projects Cortelyou advised the supervisors to prepare projects for at least twice the amount of the proposed allotment. By doing this, he said, it will make it possible for the commissioners to select projects for the entire amount of the allotment. By numbering the various projects in the order in which they stand in local importance and necessity the task of selection will be more easily accomplished, he said.

15 Projects

Acting upon instructions given him by the supervisors Nat H. Neff, chief of the county road department, prepared and submitted 15 projects at yesterday's meeting of the board. These projects cover exactly 22 miles of the county highway "feeder" system.

The projects as submitted by Neff are:

ADAMS STREET—From Fairhaven to Newport avenue; grading and building culverts and covering for a width of 20 feet with decomposed granite and macadam for a distance of 1.8 miles. The project to cost $16,000.

BATAVIA STREET—At Vista; construction of a bridge to cost $3000.

BOLSA CHICA STREET—From Wintersburg avenue to Western avenue for 3.1 miles for width of 20 feet with decomposed granite and macadam at a cost of $22,000.

FAIRHAVEN AVENUE—From the end of the present macadam surface to Crawford Canyon road, a distance of .3 mile; grade, construct culverts and gutters and a 20 foot surface of decomposed granite and macadam to cost $3000.

HANSEN ROAD—From Man-

COORDINATING COUNCIL IN S. A. URGED

Organization of a coordinating council for Santa Ana was definitely proposed yesterday with the appointment of a temporary committee composed of Ed Hall, Herbert Raney, and Mrs. R. R. Russick to make a preliminary survey of the community to discover if the weak spots in delinquency prevention can be eliminated through its establishment.

The committee will be directed by a trained SERA supervisor who has worked with coordinating councils in Los Angeles county during the past year.

Consideration of its establishment has been before civic, service, and school leaders since a dinner meeting several months ago when Ken Scudder, supervisor of Los Angeles county juvenile work, addressed a representative group of local child welfare leaders.

More than 30 delegates from schools, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., P. T. A., service clubs, and the police department attended the meeting yesterday.

The council will not be a new organization, according to Frank A. Henderson, city superintendent of schools, but a centralizing unit for organizations interested in character building, adjustment, and environment of the child.

EMPLOYEES OF COUNTY PLAN BIG PICNIC

County employees will gather in Irvine Park at 6:30 p. m., Friday, May 24, for the annual picnic of the County Employees' association, according to notices sent all members by Ray Adkinson, president of the organization.

Adkinson said that, while a greater portion of the evening will be devoted to entertainment and dancing a brief business session will be held during which officers will be elected for the ensuing year and committee reports will be submitted.

The picnic and entertainment are being arranged this year by Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison and Coroner Earl Abbey who were appointed as members of the

Want Ad Heiress

By ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY: FRANK CARREY, obscure stenographer, found an old-fashioned locket in the street. She advertised, but no one claims it for three months and then only after a series of puzzling incidents. First Fran learns she is being followed by a tall, blond young man. She wears the locket to a dance and receives from him a note, warning her to guard it. Then she finds her apartment has been ransacked, apparently for the locket. Next she receives an obviously false claim to the locket by telephone.

After Fran meets, and more than likes, WARD QUENTIN, whose newly opened office is in the building where she works, she learns that the man who had followed her is CHRISTOPHER ABBOTT, prominent lawyer. She goes to him, asks him why he followed her—what value the locket has. He gives her no information but warns her against persons who may seek her friendship.

Fran wonders if Abbott considers Ward dangerous. She tests Ward by casually mentioning the locket. He feigns lack of interest and Fran is reassured.

But Ward is interested. He is the tool of ELLEN SPENCER and her brother, FAY, who want the locket.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER THIRTEEN. With Ward who floated across the dance floor. His guidance was effortless, his time perfect. The rhythm of the music seemed to be in his very fingertips. He held you—not tightly and not loosely. Just right. He didn't bump you into people the way David did. No, when you danced with Ward, even if there were hundreds of other couples on the floor, you and he were alone on it.

"Sorry," David apologized mechanically as he and Fran were halted in their progress by a large blond woman and a short thin man. "Place is awfully crowded, you know."

Compares David and Ward Fran bit her lips. The large blond woman had extremely sharp elbows and one of them had dug into her back. The floor wasn't so terribly crowded, either, not nearly so crowded as the Miramar night club had "seen Tuesday evening when she and Ward had gone there. It was simply because David couldn't dance as well as Ward, couldn't lead as well as Ward.

Ward and David—she mustn't be comparing them too much, for David couldn't help it because he wasn't like Ward. David was nice, too, in his blundering persistent way, but he wasn't Ward. No one could be quite like him. Fran thought back to all the men she had ever known, and none of them had his charm, his simplicity, his straightforwardness.

Ward spoiled other men for you. He had spoiled David Lewis for her, she thought regretfully. This evening hadn't been a success—not that she always had a howling good time with David. She didn't, but she never had been bored with him before, and tonight she was. Plain bored. The evening seemed so long, and yet they had only been here for an hour and a half. David wouldn't want to go home yet, but she was ready to go.

She had been ready for almost an hour and a half.

Fran wasn't tired—she was extraordinary wide awake, and she was wishing that instead of David, she might be dancing with Ward.

How long had she known Ward Quentin? Three weeks? It would be three weeks tomorrow—Friday. She hadn't been out with him much in that three weeks. Oh, he had driven her home a couple of times; they had dined once at Leon's the night his car had stalled; they had had that long Sunday ride into the country, and the later had dinner at Feather Inn. They had gone out last Tuesday evening dancing. And then she had seen him so much in the hall, elevators, and then she had seen him today, although she had looked for him every time she had left the office. Perhaps he was out of town.

Today in the dressing room she had seen his secretary, Miss Hubbard whom she knew slightly, Martha Pierce having introduced them, and she had wanted to ask Miss Hubbard if Mr. Quentin was out of town, but she hadn't. No use being too inquisitive.

"Anybody call?" Fran asked as she wiggled out of her dress. Nina yawned. "A couple of people."

A little smile quivered over Fran's face as she put the dress on its hanger in the closet. "Who?" Her voice was elaborately unconcerned.

"Martha, and—" but another

SCHOOL TANGLE IS OFFICIALLY TERMINATED

Dissolved in 1933, after a tempestuous hearing before the board of supervisors, Centralia school district yesterday was officially restored to its former status by resolution of the supervisors. Actually the district was restored Oct. 1, 1934 after a court hearing in which the dissolution action was dissolved.

The district was dissolved through division among adjoining districts following the earthquake in March 1933. Petitions for the dissolution were presented to the board citing financial inability of the district to reconstruct the school building which was badly damaged in the quake. The dissolution was recommended by County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson. The supervisory chambers were packed with residents of the district on the date for the hearing and the dissolution order was passed after considerable bitter argument.

Later trustees of the district went into superior court requesting that the supervisory action be annulled and set aside. This was granted October 1 and the district returned to its former status. The action of the board, yesterday, was the final official move in recognizing the district.

yawn caught Nina. "Who did you say?" "And Cal Brabin."

"Oh—" Fran's tone was flat. Not Ward? She didn't know why, but all the way coming home, she had imagined Ward had phoned while she was gone. That was why she could hardly tell David good night decently, why she had hurried so, why the elevator had seemed so slow, why she had wanted Nina to be awake.

"You were here all evening?" Nina might have been out for a time. Fran hoped she had been. "All evening, darling, and only those two calls for you. Cal seemed quite concerned about you. Said you hadn't been in once in three weeks when he called. Nice boy, Cal."

Fran wasn't interested in him. She was much more concerned with why she hadn't seen Ward for two days. He wasn't angry, was he? Tuesday night everything had been so smooth, so all right—there was nothing for him to get peeved about. They had parted good friends as they always did, and he had said he would see her soon. Soon, she had interpreted as "tomorrow."

Rather indefinite when she thought about it, but Ward was that way. Casual.

She finished undressing slowly, more slowly than was her habit, and Nina had the light out when she finally crawled into bed.

"Who did you think might call?" Nina inquired sleepily.

"Oh, I thought Ward might call."

"Did he say he'd call?" "No—but—" Nina wasn't as sleepy as she had thought she was. She had noticed a change, too, in Fran this last week. Ten minutes out of the apartment, and Fran would come in breathlessly and ask if anyone had phoned. And the phone, when she was at home, didn't have a chance to ring twice before she was lifting the receiver.

"You aren't falling in love with Ward, are you, Fran?" "I don't think so. I'm sure I'm not."

"But you like him?" Nina cross-examined.

Fran didn't answer immediately. When she did, her reply came very softly. "I like him. He's terribly fascinating, although he doesn't mean to be so different from anybody I've ever met before. Nina. So different from David and Cal, and the others. So much more mature."

"David and Cal are nice boys," Nina returned quickly.

"I know—" Nina wouldn't ever know how she felt about David and Cal now. And how she felt about Ward, because Nina had never been out with Ward. She had seen him, it was true, when he had come up to 522 last Sunday morning, and Tuesday evening, but that was all.

"Well, maybe he did call you tonight. I just remembered. I went down to the drug store to buy some stamps at 10. I was gone about 15 minutes—" With that Nina turned over and promptly went to sleep.

Fran didn't go to sleep at once. She lay quietly for a time looking at the moon tracing a pattern on the ceiling, and thinking that Ward might have phoned her after all—although 10 was rather late to call.

LEGION DANCE TO AID RELIEF FUND IS SET

From posts throughout the county, Legionnaires and friends will assemble tomorrow night at the Valencia ballroom on Highway 101 to celebrate—at the first annual informal dance—to be given for disaster relief welfare.

Frank Neiman's 15-piece orchestra from the Laguna Beach ballroom will play for the event, beginning at 8:45. Except for a short intermission, when orchestra entertainers will present a short program, the entire evening will be devoted to dancing.

Prizes will be awarded. Ben Lieberman of Santa Ana, general chairman, has announced. Tickets for the dance can be obtained from post members or at the door.

YOUTH GUILTY OPERETTA WILL BE GIVEN

Robert Berkeley, Fullerton Negro youth, was found guilty of first degree robbery late yesterday by a jury in department two, superior court. The case went to the jury shortly before noon and a verdict was returned at 3:04 p. m. Berkeley, who has not yet filed an application for probation, will appear before Superior Judge James L. Allen Friday at 10 a. m. for pronouncement of judgment.

The Negro youth was found guilty of using a revolver to hold-up and rob a service station at Broadway and Los Angeles streets, Anaheim, securing $43 in currency.

When the jury retired yesterday it was necessary to move a couch into the chambers for use of H. W. Shepard, one of the jurors. Shepard became ill Monday night but returned to court yesterday. He was again stricken shortly after the jury had retired.

COOPERATIVE ACTION HIT

Action of United Cooperative exchange number one in placing George Clark in office as president to replace Newell Lucas has been ruled not constitutional by federal authorities at Los Angeles, it was learned today. The same authority ruled that the past three meetings of the exchange were not in accordance with the constitution under which the organization functions.

Mr. Clark was made president at a meeting last Friday night. Members of the organization at that time protested that the meeting was not being conducted in accordance with regulations.

"I don't think so. I'm sure I'm not."

"But you like him?" Nina cross-examined.

Fran didn't answer immediately. When she did, her reply came very softly. "I like him. He's terribly fascinating, although he doesn't mean to be so different from anybody I've ever met before. Nina. So different from David and Cal, and the others. So much more mature."

MRS. PALLISTER CONVICTED BY JURY

After deliberating since 4 p. m. Monday, the jury that heard evidence against Mrs. Alice C. D. Pallister and Thomas R. Johnson, Orange junk dealer, charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and render aid, in connection with the death of W. W. Maloney of Los Angeles in an automobile crash at Huntington Beach, returned verdicts at 2:27 p. m. yesterday, finding her guilty of manslaughter but acquitting her of the hit and run charge. Johnson, tried jointly with Mrs. Pallister, withheld his plea of not guilty Monday, and pleaded guilty to both counts. Johnson, who filed an application for probation, will have a hearing Friday at 1:30 p. m. before Superior Judge H. G. Ames in whose court the case was tried. Mrs. Pallister has not filed an appeal for probation and will appear Friday at 11:30 a. m. for pronouncement of judgment.

Unique Twist

There was a unique twist to the jury's verdict in the case of Mrs. Pallister in that it was reported yesterday morning that when the jury was locked up Monday night all members had agreed on a verdict of not guilty on the hit and run count but stood nine to three for conviction on the manslaughter charge. After returning their verdict yesterday afternoon members of the jury verified the report and said that during the night certain members had changed their minds and subsequent examination resulted in a reversal of the hit and run decision.

RUSSIAN WOMEN, RED FLAGS

Emporia (Kan.) Gazette

THE new Moscow subway has created a political issue in Soviet Russia. Austere old Bolsheviks have insisted that clothing styles should be severe, as befits a grim workers' republic. But now comes the younger generation, demanding, if the government can spend money making its subways beautiful, why not its women?

Well, why not? The trouble with Russia, if you ask us, is in their women's clothes. The average greasewood, shiny-nosed, bereted, leather-coated Soviet maiden, as she appears in newsreels, is about as alluring and tantalizing to the male sex as a GMC truck.

As a fireside companion on chill winter nights, or a little pal to gambol with on the greensward amongst the daffodils, the average capitalist male would write her off as a net loss and charge it to experience.

What with the way their women look, it's no wonder Russian men spend so much of their time going to meetings, work up so much emotional fervor for the Five Year Plan in Four, and can spend their evenings reading industrial statistics.

Which is probably what keeps us in the capitalist ranks. We have a strong feeling for social justice. The various kinds of underdogs can play on our emotions like Jesse Crawford on the Wurlitzer. But just about the time we grab our red flag with the hammer and sickle on it and start down the street, we see a photograph of a Russian beauty and it cools us off. We put down the flag and move about three paces nearer to Andrew Mellon.

What with those long winter nights in Russia, we can't see ourselves alone with a volume of statistics. Even in high school we could work up no enthusiasm for arithmetic.

Love may be free in Russia, but if they expect to get any results on the present basis they will have to make it compulsory.

FELLOWSHIP BREEDS FAITH

THE annual district conference of Rotary clubs at Santa Monica, and the purposes for which that organization and others of similar type were created, provokes the inquiry as to whether they do not contain the war preventive elements.

The objects of these American born organizations, which have now become international, plead for a better understanding and world wide fellowship. It is the theory of those promoting these objects that with a better understanding of each other's problems the solution can be more easily accomplished. Certainly the solution will be more easily arrived at if the negotiating parties know each other through fraternal association.

Through a close examination of debatable problems, adjustments are more easily reached than if there had been no previous contact. Officially interwoven by club or fraternal affiliations the viewpoint of both parties presents a more tolerant appearance.

It is the conviction of men whose business relations bring them together in the several service club organizations that differences are more easily adjusted as the growth of Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and similar orders extend their membership into the nations of the world.

WHEELS ROLLING AGAIN

THE first thing a citizen buys when he gets back on his feet after an attack of depression is a new car.

That's shown by surveys, and by auto production figures, which are setting new high marks.

It's easy to understand. For five years lack of money has kept people close at home or bottled up in small circuits.

Now with release coming along in the form of pay checks or increased income, they buy a car, hop in, and tour around to see what has happened in the past five years.

Armies of easterners are coming west. Battalions of westerners are going east.

This will be one of the biggest touring years ever known.

THE SPIRIT OF OLE

SAN CLEMENTE, our good neighbor, is embroiled in another recall election. It is San Clemente's own problem and nobody is disposed to congratulate or console with the principals for fear it might turn out to be another case of the man beating his wife. A neighbor interferred and the good wife flew at him, screaming: "You stay out of this; I'm his wife and he can lick me if he wants to."

Ole Hanson has left the Spanish city and is devoting his attention to another project at Twenty-nine Palms. In spite of his absence the town carries on in various spectacular ways. The spirit of Ole still lives.

Deadly defense devices are being created by almost every nation under the sun, and at the same time rulers loudly proclaim their desire for peace. The action is not in harmony with the assertion. War, as it could now be carried on, is too terrifying to think about. It seems like mankind is still unmindful of the Proclamation of Peace offered for the adjustment of disagreements two thousand years ago.

Census figures show Orange county has 1507 more farms than it had five years ago. That is encouraging. We trust the next five years will show a corresponding increase, provided the new owners know how to run their farms at a profit. Fifteen hundred new farms every five years are a distinctive asset to the county if that means fifteen hundred new farmers and their families who prosper and pay their taxes. Otherwise it is another story.

Day Drexler, in the Westminster Gazette, remarks on the beauty of the bean fields and the thin trains of dust spreading out behind, set in the distance against the velvet-like brown fields. We agree with Editor Drexler that the bean fields and tractors are mighty impressive but somehow or other, we yearn for the horses that used to kick up the dust and for the man behind the plow, when we think of impressive scenery.

Our government offers relief to the several states, with a string to it. The commonwealth making the appeal is called upon to throw in a certain percentage. In this respect Administrator Hopkins has a rather strong weapon.

The police are making it increasingly difficult for the ladies who live lightly to continue to reside in areas hitherto distinguished for their respectability. The depression and many unoccupied flats made it possible for them to burrow in.

As the result of the let-down, sedate tenants suddenly heard strange men passing through their halls at unseasonable hours and string orchestras arriving all times of night. Staid workers found themselves in the early morning elevators with tipsy fellows departing in silk hats.

So the patrol wagons began to back up and carry away the merry-makers. The decadence was so sudden two upper West Side residential blocks, long known for their gentle domestic demeanor, became so flagrantly bawdy as the old Red Light section in the 20s.

In the days of looser regulations, men caught in the demi-mondaine raids were jockeyed to rear entrances and told to vamoose. The woman paid. But today no one escapes. Everybody found in a suspected apartment has to drive down town and say good morning to the judge.

The passing of Elinor Glyn's sister, Lady Duff-Gordon, recalls her vivid dressmaking establishment on the upper avenue known as "Lucille." She was the first to display the mannikin on a miniature stage and introduce the male hakim with jack-knife bows, morning coats and ledger ruled trousers. Almost every summer revue had a skit savoring the smartness of "Lucille's." But her greatest puff was achieved when she fashioned the tulle-trousers for Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

Lucille's, too, was the first I believe to exploit that now highly specialized flunkey, the doorman in uniform. Bewilderingly buttoned, buskined and shakoed, he was a combination of a Whitehall guard and a front row chorus boy in "The Chocolate Soldier." I think it was Willie Collier who, in passing one day, walked up to the glittering figure and exclaimed: "Prithree, Claudius! A bit of fluff!" And removed an imaginary fleck from a strand of gold braid.

So many things have happened to that snooty stretch of the avenue since the days of "Lucille." The Vanderbilt mansion, finest example of the French chateau, made way for a commercial block that is now half empty. The Savoy verandah, rose bowered, where the elite lunched and looked down upon the bourgeois flow, is gone. The stately stoned Collis P. Huntington home, also across the street, indeed, the site of "Lucille's" itself is a clattery Childs.

One of the most intimate and exclusive restaurants in mid-town has a seating capacity of eight—just two tables. Reached through a delicatessen, the cuisine is strictly French. The patrons are selected by the owner, who does the serving, and his wife, who does the cooking. Among the favored are John Boetticher, the president's son-in-law; Gilbert Seldes, the writer, and Crosby Gaige, the impresario. Dinner must be ordered a day in advance.

Billy Seeman in prohibition days discovered a one-tabled back yard restaurant that proved a mine for its owner, an Italian widow struggling among the slums to rear her brood. She had been cooking marvelous dinners for truck drivers at 35 cents a head. Seeman heard about the place and paid a visit. He induced her to boost her price to $2, install four extra tables and admit only those who had cards from him and their friends. Thus a carefully selected clientele and in a few years she was able to return to Italy in comparative wealth. The point is, anyone who can serve a bang-up meal is "sit-in' pretty."

Lucius Beebe finds that the most gorgeously caparisoned sommelier in town, is at the Rockefeller Rainbow room. He does look perfectly grand, but my entry for the king pin of all wine waiters is one who graced the Mauretania during her most auspicious greyhound days. He had a John Bull face with ruddy cheeks, side whiskers and all, wore silk stockings, silver buckled pumps and the chain of his calling around his neck was encrusted with imitation jewels. His name was Monteith, and before opening a bottle of wine he slipped on a pair of white cotton gloves—which he afterward discarded in the ice of the wine bucket. There was touch! A fresh pair of gloves for each bottle of wine.

Talks to Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

Two-year-old Junior woke up about 10 o'clock and demanded a drink of water. His aunt, wishing to save his mother extra steps, took it to him; but Junior refused to accept it from anyone but his mother.

At a year old Sally had measles. No one could come near her but her mother, who had to be on call day and night to attend the child. All of Howard's waking hours were spent tagging after his mother. He could not bear to let her out of his sight. When guests or strangers came into the house he would hide behind his mother, refusing to speak to anyone or to be loosened from his grip on his mother's skirts.

In one form or another everyone knows at least one and generally more of these dependent children. For them the world seems bounded by their mother. And for some reason the mothers, who are responsible for the youngsters, like this dependence. Of course it limits their actions, but it gives them a sense of importance which makes up for all the inconveniences it causes.

There is nothing unusual in the child who acts this way. It is not particularly affectionate or possessed of special sympathy with its mother. It is simply badly trained. Generally the mother will be found to be emotionally starved herself. She is building up her own self-confidence and satisfying her hunger at the child's expense. In the end she is bound to lose, for the child cannot be hers forever and remain happy and normal.

A child should be trained from infancy to do without its mother occasionally, and to accept services from others as a matter of course.

X-RAYING THE ARTERIES

By a variety of methods such as touch, study of the pulse, observation of the color of the skin and its reaction of postural changes, it is possible to determine in a general sort of way the competency of the circulation of blood through the extremities.

But in order to discover whether any given portion of the arterial system is affected by disease, and in what manner it may be affected, it is necessary that we actually visualize the course of the arteries.

At times the arteries of the extremities can be pictured by means of the ordinary x-ray. This is possible when the arteries have become hardened and contain calcium deposits which cast x-ray shadows. But such visualization of arteries is limited and is not sufficiently detailed.

Attempts to visualize the arteries have been made ever since Roentgen's famous discovery. Such attempts, however, were not fruitful until recently. During the last 10 years a variety of substances have been used as an aid to the x-raying of the arteries, and of these substances thorium dioxide has been found most satisfactory. A solution of this substance is injected into the artery to be visualized and an x-ray is promptly taken. The shadows cast are clear and one can see the path of the arteries.

The x-raying of arteries is of help in diagnosis, in determining the nature of circulatory difficulty, and in securing information on a variety of associated factors.

The technique promises to be particularly valuable in the study of disease processes affecting the blood vessels in the extremities. There is a great deal concerning the abnormal changes which the circulatory system undergoes which still is unknown by us. By visualizing the pathologic changes as they occur we are bound to secure valuable and useful information.

This technique of visualizing the arteries has also proved of service to the surgeon.

NAVAL MANEUVERS

Editor The Journal:—I was beginning to enjoy your little paper until this evening when I read your sarcastic editorial on the naval maneuvers now taking place. As the wife of a naval officer living temporarily in your town I feel impelled to take issue with you.

I am very sure that the motive back of these and past maneuvers has not been a desire to scare anybody as you say, but rather to test the efficiency of the vast machine known as the United States Navy. I doubt very much if you printed the first issue of your paper without testing your presses. And if war were suddenly declared and the navy, which is our first line of defense, was found inefficient in defending the West Coast, you civilians would be the first to cast blame.

As for Japan knowing, after these maneuvers, what we have or have not, as you say, Japan does not need these maneuvers to know all she cares to. The Japanese are a very intelligent and loyal people and I doubt very much if the editor of a Japanese paper would show the bad taste to criticize the motives of those in defense of their country.

I think it would have been much kinder for you to have offered a word of sympathy for the families of the two men who have been killed in the line of duty even though we are not at war.

Few civilians realize the actual hardship and suffering families of naval men are forced to endure even during peace time, in order that their fathers may be adequately protected at all times. And I suggest that if you are a real newspaper man, you acquaint yourself with some of the arduous peace time requirements of the navy before writing sarcastic editorials about something of which you apparently know very little.

Yours very truly,
MRS. R. D. BELL.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

GOVERNMENT legal authorities are studying with much interest a proposed new criminal code drafted by the Illinois Bar association, under which indictments by grand juries would be abolished.

Home owners who are delinquent in their installment payments to the HOLC are receiving sharply worded duns warning that if they don't pay drastic action will follow. Twenty per cent of the HOLC borrowers are 90 days or more behind in their payments. The total involved is more than $25,000,000. The hand-some furniture used in the NRA office of General Hugh Johnson, which was scattered after he departed, has been collected and is now being used by Donald Richberg. Treasury officials learn that French, Dutch, Swiss and Belgian holders of American government bonds have organized to institute a new suit against the gold clause.

On the other side of the fence, and championing the bill with equal vigor, are various church organizations.

The bill would not bar distribution of the book "Rhythm," Catholic-approved text on the subject, Howdy, folks! "Food Prices Soar," says a headline. So are we.

It's such a comfort to hear that the trouble is not that prices are going up, but that the value of the dollar is going down.

NEWS AND NOTES OF RADIO
A real treat is in store for radio fans who tune in on Station JUICE at 8:30 tonight, the regular Harold J. Peppermint Song Recital Hour. Mr. Peppermint was in an automobile accident today and will be unable to sing.

An orange expert on bottling declares it is wiser to pick fruit after dark. Especially if you have not any of your own.

There are rumors that a 1902 nickel is worth a lot of money. And so it is—five cents.

ADVICE TO LITTLE WILLIE
Take care of the pennies and Daddy will take care of busting your coin bank open.

News item states that few radio programs are sent from this country to China. Well, it sounds good—but by the time we get settled over there things would probably change.

ABIGAIL APPLESAUCE SEZ:
"Speaking of high prices, have you noticed that th' things you never wasted are considerably cheaper?"

A national committee has been appointed to study racketeering. Those who know expect the committee to advocate its abolition.

Sam Sneez had a nose for news. But couldn't hold a candle to another cub called Willie Snoop. Who had an ear for scandal!

"When it is midnight in London it is nearly half-past nine in the morning at Tokyo," states a stray item. We are afraid that this is rather too clumsy for the title of a popular song.

YE DIARY
Up betimes, and to driving the petrol buggy around to the front door. And Dame Juice, standing on the porch, does enquire: "That gasoline chaise do be so covered with dirt, why don't you try growing carrots on the fenders and string beans on the running boards?" But I do not dignify her bitter remarks by answering them, for Lord! the petrol buggy do be bright and shiny, for did I not wash and polish it five months ago come next haying time? And so to the printery.

SUNDOWN STORIES

AROUND THE FIRE

By Mary Graham Bonner

Big Chief Eagle rubbed two pieces of wood together and lit the fire in true Indian fashion.

Then they all sat around. The horses and ponies walked over to a patch of grass, ate a little and then helped themselves to water from the stream that led in to the pond. They rested too.

"We have time to make camp for a little while," said

Big Chief Eagle, "if welcome we get. We start early for big pow-wow, thinking we'd find land where no people—where Indians could play old games, make believe land was theirs once more.

"It will not be for too long time," said Big Chief Eagle. "After pow-wow we go back to place we live now. For this while, Big Chief, other Indians with Big Chief thank you, ask you to join our festival.

"It will not be festival of planting corn, nor of victory after battle. It will be festival of Great-Moon-Over-Puddle."

"Yes," said Milly Nilly, happy as could be, "we will have a full moon by the end of the week. But tell me, how did you know of Puddle Muddle?"

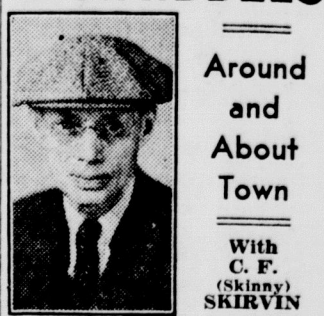

"On way Big Chief asks flying birds: "Where place for Indians to play before go to pow-wow? And Feathered flyers say: "Puddle Muddle. They have cared for us when winter snows have covered earth, when wild winds blew through leafless trees. They, fine in Puddle Muddle. They like playtime too."

"How good of them to say that!" exclaimed Willy Nilly. "And here you'll stay until you must go on."

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

I have been somewhat disturbed the past few days. L. K. Best of the Edison organization has had a screen over a street opening in front of The Journal office. No one offered him a line and he brought none during his three days vigil so I wondered what he had down there and what the dispute was about, until there emerged one Dave Jellis, and he and Best appeared to be on the most friendly terms. So my worry was irrelevant, incompetent, and none of my business. Is there a moral in this that we project ourselves into other people's affairs without invitation or justification?

That airplane stunt flyer who is giving Santa Ana residents a thrill, does not have my approval. Those dips and loops are all right so long as they work, but if something happens and the darn thing pokes its nose into my bedroom—well, it will in all probability be too late to complain. So I want to get my kick in now.

There seems to be a prevailing suspicion that $2 bills are unlucky. So far as I am concerned I have reached that point where I am willing to take all kinds of chances. So bring 'em to me.

I have been interviewed. Reporter wants to know how I like radios. I like 'em because what I do not want they can't make me take. But I have no control over those used for advertising purposes or in the neighborhood. If that's information use all of it. Seriously though I do like good music modulated so my acoustics can absorb it. It's that vicious jazz where one player tries to submerge the other, that gives me the jitters.

When The Journal opened its office Jim Farquhar of the Huntington Beach News sent over a basket filled with roses, carnations, tulips, iris, snap dragons, delphiniums, gardenias, gladiolas, calceolarias, glorioles, tulips, peonies. Say, Jim what kind of flowers were there in that basket?

Correction: In this department there appeared a few days ago paragraph about Major Anderson, refrigeration expert, not being expected in these parts for some time, due to the fact that some one appropriated his car. The efficiency of police departments has brought the smiling countenance of the Major back to his usual haunts earlier than expected, the car being recovered at Fresno. This cuts down the Major's Texas mileage from 265-896 square miles to just a trace.

We are having a lot of trouble in these United States, but most of it is coming from people out of work who won't work when they can get it. Is Uncle Sam being imposed upon? Is the charitable attitude of the administration breaking down the national morale.

Oh, boy; he brought a beautifully decorated eye into the holy of holies. It looked like a midwest dust storm. He said he bumped into a door on his way to a telephone to answer a night call, only to find that central had hit the wrong number. The verbal pyrotechnics that followed central's apology could have been responsible for the lava beds out at Ludlow.

The plight of the American farmer is so well disclosed that there is little use dwelling upon that unfortunate situation. A plan is now being evolved by some super-intelligence to send several thousand of them into Alaska, presumably for rehabilitation purposes. Are they not starving to death quick enough here?

Loaded into the rumble seat of an automobile going down South Main was an old discarded phonograph. It had seen better days, entertained owners and dismayed neighbors. Remember away back when we couldn't hardly wait until the new record list came out. Then down to the studio to have an audition at so much per audit. Most owners gathered a large collection of records. If you had enough money to get a red seal you were in high. I picked up a few disks on which Caruso, Farrar, Tetraxini, and other lesser celebrities left their vocal autograph. The old phone is now resting peacefully in the garage, with several hundred dollars of my hard earned cash put to bed in the lower and upper berths. But it was great fun until the radio denoted it. I can now detect a vanishing interest in the radio. What next?
